

Overview

Many Copious customers come back year after year for our help on so many different kinds of projects. Customers come to rely on our expertise and professionalism to help with objectives like redefining their chart of accounts and financial reporting, redesigning their SKUs. Advancing their costing system, perhaps adding Labor and Overhead. These are just examples of business issues we can help you overcome.

Frequently for new customers, Copious maintains safe projects. What does this mean? This means we prefer and recommend that clients walk before they run. During the solutions architecture phase we help you define those top business objectives that will be addressed in phase one. We also help you prioritize issues that will make good sense to address in future phases after your company has digested the initial implementation.

Regardless of whether you are new to Copious or a happy customer ready to tackle yet another project, we can help. We offer many additional services such as:
